"THE WAY I SEE IT"

By Rev. Kenneth Clay

Scientists have developed the microscope to such perfection that it will magnify many thousand times the actual size. A small germ which cannot be seen with the naked eye can be magnified until it looks like a large animal. This discovery has made it possible for man to explore an entirely new world—the micro-cosmic world. For the first time man has been able to discover the cause of certain disease, and learning the cause he is able to successfully combat that disease.

Likewise, some people have developed their minds to such an extent that it has become so vivid that a microscopic trouble looks like a major defect. A vivid imagination is a good thing so long as it is not stretched out of all proportion. When this happens such a person is likely to become a chronic trouble maker who disturbs the peace of any community. Looking into the life of some person they see a very insignificant fault, but viewed through their eyes it becomes an unpardonable immorality, or major sin. It wouldn't be so bad if they just magnified the fault in their own minds. The trouble is this microscopic enlargement goes in their eyes and out of their mouth. Worse still, their egotism causes them to assume the role of a complete isolationist as far as this person is concerned. Nothing could be more unchristian, for Christianity would seek to help rather than criticize and find fault.

Such persons finding themselves guilty should be ashamed of themselves. What have they done? They have almost, if not altogether, destroyed someone's character, and robbed them of their friends. To sum it up they have actually stolen a priceless possession from a personality—character and friends. There is no greater thief. Stealing money is a small crime in comparison to stealing character and friends from a defenseless soul.

Remedy: Get rid of one's many faults and then it is easier to help the other person rid himself of his fault.

Courier readers know what's what.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE

Lenox, Ky., Jan. 22, 1941

To the Democratic voters of Morgan county:

About two years ago I made an informal announcement that I intended to make the race for County Judge, and I have been in all parts of the county, and I have met with favorable reception, and people in general seem to think that I would make a better judge than the kind of a judge that we have had, and on the advice of my friends coupled with my desire to be judge of your county, I now desire to make my formal announcement and to ask you to help me secure the nomination and election as judge.

I was born on a farm near Lenox, Ky., and was raised to young manhood on the farm. I was called to the service of my country in 1918 and served some 16 months of which about 14 months was spent overseas. I went through all the hardships of war, and am thankful that I was able to return home. I settled down on a farm and married, and have lived on a farm since that time.

I took a special high course from 1925 to 1927 with a special agriculture course so that I might be able to better my activities as a farmer. I served as a guard at the state reformatory for about one year, and was with the engineering crew of the state highway for two years, and as census enumerator, so with this varied experience, I feel that I am quite capable of making you a good judge since I know the farmers' problems from actual experience. I know about road building from actual experience and I know about looking after law and order from actual experience. I am now 47 years of age and feel that I am settled enough and the proper age that a man should ask for such an important office.

These are trying times as Europe is now engrossed in another war and the United States is doing all in its power to aid Britain in her stand for democracy. We have a peace-time draft and many young men are being taken and will be taken into the service, and we don't know what may happen. Therefore, you need a level headed, conscientious, man at the head of your county government.

There has never been a McClain held a county office so far as I know. Some of them have been judges. We are a large family and have been content to live on our farms and work for the interests of better farming and the interests of Morgan county, and I believe that this nomination and election is due me, and I will certainly make you the kind of a judge that you will be proud of.

I appreciate my many friends and the proffer of support that they have offered me, and I want to thank each of you for this and to urge each of you to use your influence and support me in this coming primary and I want to thank you one and all. I am, Your friend,

HARRY MCCLAIN

Lenox, Ky.

INTRODUCING COOKBOOKLETS

Beginning next week the Courier will present to its readers twenty Culinary Arts Institute Cookbooklets covering almost every phase of cooking and homemaking. Each of these booklets is practical and useful, designed to help homemakers save time, money, and effort in preparing meals of interest and variety for every occasion.

Altogether, the twenty booklets contain 1,000 pages, 7,500 recipes and suggestions, and hundreds of beautiful and instructive illustrations. An interesting feature of all the books is special process information presenting short cuts, methods, and new ways of preparing familiar and new dishes.

The interesting variety of subjects allows almost unlimited scope in planning meals for the family, company dinners, party refreshments, etc. There is valuable and practical information on meats, pies, pastries, cakes, vegetables, snacks, sea food, poultry, soups, salads, fish, candies, desserts, cookies, dairy dishes, and menus for every day in the year.

The Cookbooklets have been prepared by a staff of experienced home economists under the direction of Ruth Berolzheimer, editor of the popular American Woman's Cook Book and the United States Regional Cook Book. In 1936, the Culinary Arts Press was founded by Claire S. Davidow, as a publishing and distributing organization. The Culinary Arts Institute was established in 1938 to do research and carry through the production of cook books.

All the material presented in the Cookbooklets has been thoroughly tested and checked. All bread recipes are tested by the Wheat Flour Institute; the meat recipes are tested by the National Livestock and Meat Board; a number of miscellaneous recipes were tested by the Delineator Institute, and in addition, extensive use is made of other experimental laboratories and kitchens throughout the country.

The Culinary Arts Institute comprises the only group of trained home economists in the country devoting themselves exclusively to the production of cook books.

These Cookbooklets represent years of planning and extended research in gathering the best recipes and illustrations available and in compiling the most complete and useful information on each subject.

Every effort has been made to answer the questions that arise constantly, to solve the problems that confront the woman who prepares an average of 1,000 meals a year.

With this remarkable series as a guide, a light, smooth textured cake—rich, velvety gravies—crisp, delicious salads—luscious brown roasts—spectacular smorgasbords—the ingenious use of leftovers—new ways to serve familiar foods, are simple achievements.

Wait for the special announcement next week telling how easily these booklets are available, a new one each week, as a special public service to every reader of the Courier.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

NEW COUNTY JUDGE

Rev. M. B. Whitt of Wrigley was appointed county judge of Morgan county by Governor Keen Johnson last week to fill the vacancy caused by the death of C. P. Henry.

Without intending any reflections upon any of the other applicants for the office, the Courier believes that Governor Johnson, as usual, has made an excellent appointment, and that Judge Whitt will acquire himself creditably in what is certainly an important, and difficult, office.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our many friends who so kindly assisted us thruout the illness and death of our husband and father, W. T. Phillips. Also Dr. R. D. Sparks, Dr. H. B. Murray, and Dr. W. H. W. Becul-himer, and R. H. Ferguson.

While many are left To mourn and weep, Has gone to sleep, Nothing will hinder From reaching his goal, When his body is united With the soul.

A glorious hope, God can't lie, We'll meet our Savior In the sky.

The Holy Spirit And second birth, Was a guiding light While here on earth. The anchor of the soul Which cannot fail, If entered to that Within the veil.

An Idea or Two

Another week spent—or invested.

If the truth hurts you, don't blame the truth teller.

So live that no preacher need be tempted to lie at your funeral.

Financiers are against inflation unless it involves their holdings.

There is only one way to help the British and that is to help them.

Curiosity is an excellent trait if it is kept under control by good manners.

It might be nice to have a newspaper to suit everybody, but did you ever see one?

Those who think there is little or no room for the improvement of self prefer flattery to criticism.

Really, we would rather you told us our faults and others our virtues, if any, instead of vice versa.

It's always easier to point out the other fellow's mistakes than to improve our own performance.

Others may, for a time, damage your reputation, but you yourself are responsible for your character.

You can go around the world and you will probably find no people better than your neighbors in West Liberty.

The goal of modern education is to enable teachers to impart their lack of knowledge to pupils who won't study.

Strange as it may seem to him, a church can get along better without any man than he can get along without the church.

National defense may be pastime, in the minds of some Americans, but the time may arrive when it will be a matter of life and death.

The manager of a good country store needs about the same amount of brains that is required to be the head of a big corporation.

When enough of the taxpayers insist upon a public accounting of public funds, Morgan county and school officials will make it.

"A word to the wise is sufficient," but a whole library of good sermons, or even the Bible, cannot convince some not so wise of their errors.

Next time a man excuses himself for shady dealing or avoidance of his civic responsibilities by saying, "A man must live," ask him "What for?"

The cooperation that the nation seeks in the present critical era would not hurt us a bit if we managed to use it in years of relative calm.

This is a good time of the year for the people who believe that you can get peace by resolutions to hold a convention and pass some resolutions.

Public officials and employees are dependent upon, and responsible to, the voters. Don't expect them to do their duty if you, as a voter, neglect yours.

Short, and we mean short, letters to the editor, upon any interesting topic of public interest, will be welcomed by the Courier, which will try to print them.

Regardless of how often business men insist that the government stay out of business, few big shots hesitate to seek legislation that will benefit their enterprises.

When people are reduced to radios and movies as their sources of "inspiration," it's no wonder they lack the virtues of their forefathers who had time to read and hear the word of God.

Maybe we ought not to mention it, but we know some Morgan countians who think it's smart to spend their money somewhere else, and most of our local merchants are doing very little to show them up.

Then there are people who continue to say that what happens outside the United States has nothing to do with us. You can't make wheat and cotton growers believe it in view of what happened to their export markets.

Only a few weeks ago, Republican orators warned that if Roosevelt should win it would be the last free election in this country. Now they talk about a Republican victory at the next election. As good Democrats, we hope they are wrong both times.

WASHINGTON NOTES

TVA Power
Farm and city buyers of TVA power saved around $9,000,000 in 1940, according to a report of the authority.

Pistols
London police, hitherto unarmed, have ordered $300,000 worth of revolvers from the United States. The weapons are needed to meet possible invaders.

Gulf Dock
The navy has arranged for the construction of a large floating dock at Galveston to accommodate ships as large as cruisers. At present no such facilities are available in the Gulf area.

Trade Routes
There is discussion of the possibility that the United States will take over various trade routes in the Pacific, thus releasing British ships for transporting supplies to Great Britain.

Farm Income
Gains in farm income are expected in 1941, according to a review issued by the bureau of agricultural marketing. Increased industrial activity is expected to be the biggest factor in stimulating farm income.

Leaving Japan
Of the 8,000 Americans in Japan when the U. S. state department advised them to leave about three months ago, only about 1,000 remain. The homeward movement of Americans from the entire far eastern region is still underway.

Air Bases
The Canadian government is expected to construct a series of air bases between the border of the United States and Alaska. They will be available for the use of American planes. The construction is in line with plans of the two nations for joint defense.

Gas Defense
Plans for a widespread defense against poison gas attacks are behind army contracts for gas mask charcoal and other chemicals used in defensive appliances. Of the $10,000,000 involved, about half will go to the construction of plants that will be owned by the government but operated by private enterprises.

Six Day Week
Patriotism and the "terrible urgency" of the international crisis will be relied upon to persuade industry engaged on defense orders to adopt the six day week, according to a report which says that the newly formed office of production management will make the appeal, designed to end the two-day week-end and increase the output of supplies for the British.

GARDENERS' MEETING

The following farmers met in the county agent's office for the purpose of outlining a garden program for county. John Gardner, field agent in gardens from the university of Kentucky, was present. Sam D. Cecil, J. T. Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Dennie Oney, Wallace Blankenship, Manford France, Clifton Engle, R. B. McGuire, C. S. Jackson, N. G. Ratliff, Harlan Ferguson, Clayton Hammond, Cecil Day, J. H. Davis, Charley Holliday, and Stanley Caskey attended the meeting.

Mr. Gardner convinced the group without a doubt that for each hour spent working in the garden you received at least one dollar. It was also concluded that our gardens could be improved and that a good way to increase the family income was to produce as much of what was used on the farm as possible. Mr. Gardner emphasized the fact that a test of a good garden was what was stored up for winter use.

It was also brought out that many farmers in this county could raise additional cash income by growing vegetables to sell. Mr. Sam D. Cecil has been rather successful in doing this.

It was also emphasized by Mr. Gardner that a good garden was always been important, but with the coming world conditions a good garden might mean much more than it has in the past. The following items are often overlooked by the gardeners and are sometimes difficult to get when the need arises:

1. Certified seed potatoes.
2. "Wilt" resistant Marglobe and Broad O' Day tomato seed, and Wisconsin All Seasons and Wisconsin Hollander Cabbage seed.
3. Corrosive sublimate for seed potato treatment.
4. Bluestone, which to make Bordeaux mixture, disease control.
5. Magnesium arsenate, for bean beetle control.
6. Rotenone for bean beetle control.
7. Dusters and sprayers with which to apply these things.

Many farmers in this county have had much trouble with wilt, cabbage and tomatoes. This can be avoided by using the above varieties. The next time you go to the store for your seed inquire for these varieties. Each month timely material will be mailed garden leaders. It is hoped through community meetings, good garden demonstrations and through the work of those interested to improve the gardens in this county. A good garden program will be seen in this county.

C. E. Harris, poultry specialist from the University of Kentucky, showed how poultry could fit into the live from the farm program.

Yandall Wrathe, County Agent.

RECEIVE NURSES' CAPS

Dayton, Ky., Jan. 14.—The August class of Speers Nursing School in Dayton, Kentucky, now realize that their second step of success has been achieved. Not only did each of us struggle patiently through our probation period; but we, with the aid of our superintendent, Mrs. E. W. Stapleton, and instructor, Miss N. Biekie, won the honor of receiving our caps in our special capping service January 14. This happy event reminds us of the fact that we have all, Miss Phyllis Bond of Huntington, W. Va., Lillian Hutchinson of Covington, Mary Johnson of West Liberty, Marjorie Perica of Greenfield, Ohio, Helen Peters of Ashland, Hazel Rardin of Alexandria, Lorraine of Silver Grove, Lina Robinette of Clinchport, Va., Dorothy Smith of Alexandria, and Lillian Reinhardt of Newport, have been accepted by the Speers Memorial School of Nursing.

We are each hoping to be successful as nurses, and that we might prove to be one of the best classes receiving instructions from this school.

Now, may I say individually, that this capping event means more to me than just an ordinary piece of white cloth. It proves that we are proceeding on the right path of progress, and that those few years I spent in Morgan county high are never to be forgotten as an educational foundation.

I must not forget those students who are now taking my place in the class rooms in dear old West Liberty high school. May their studies be more interesting and their teachers feel satisfied with their routine class work.

In conclusion, let's all hope for greater progress in all schools and everything during this new year.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL

The collection and disposal of garbage presents quite a problem to any town be it large or small. In most towns one of two general plans followed. Either the town pays the collector or the individuals pay him for removing their garbage. Obviously the town owned method is the most satisfactory because human nature being about the same in all localities many individuals will gradually drop out of the system and the garbage will be only partially removed.

By the town operated method a truck or other vehicle is owned by the town and a man is paid to collect all garbage in town. If it is preferable to furnish his own vehicle. Whatever the plan there should be a definite contract as to the route covered, time of collection and thoroughness of collection. In many instances the Town Marshall supervises this work.

No matter what the method of collection it is up to the citizens of the town to provide suitable containers and to place all garbage and trash in such containers. A metal can with a tight fitting cover is probably the best container to use. To prevent dogs from overturning the can four stakes may be driven and the can set between them. All tin cans, paper or any waste material should be put in these cans. If the premise has no suitable place for the disposal of ashes and cinders they should be kept in a metal barrel and removed occasionally.

Burning paper and trash may work all right in some instances but only has to look around a little to see unsightly piles of ashes and half-burned paper which should have been placed in a can and removed from town.

The question comes up, "But won't this cost a lot of money?" Of course it will cost quite a bit. But who can compare the cost of sanitation and the lessened hazards of filth borne diseases to the better appearance of the town and as any one, I think, will admit the better health of the community?

If garbage were kept in covered cans and removed regularly, once a week would be fairly satisfactory. The cost of this should not be prohibitive. Are the inhabitants of West Liberty willing to demand, and then to pay for the removal of garbage and trash from the town? If so, you should talk to your town officials. They are willing to cooperate if you are willing to help pay for it. Think it over.
